

Miyakoh Botanic Garden Aoshima and Singapore Botanic Garden

Since the Aoshima Subtropical Botanic Garden and the Singapore Botanic Gardens signed Sister Garden agreement in 1965, they have deepened friendship through employee and plant exchange.

Standing in the southwest corner of the Glasshouse and majestically emitting water from its mouth, the Merlion statue was designed and erected in March, 2016 with permission from the Singaporean Tourism Board. Adjustments were made to the statue based on feng shui rules so that it is facing in the direction believed to be auspicious—88 degrees east.

ENGLISH

Miyazaki Prefectural Aoshima Subtropical Botanic Garden

Flower mountain
The roundabout welcomes visitors all year round with seasonal flowers. The Bougainvillea in spring is especially well-received.

Tropical fruit glasshouse
Various tropical fruit trees are on display, ranging from bananas to dragon fruits and false mangoes.

Jacaranda mimosifolia
There is the first outdoors planted Jacaranda in Japan located at the event square.

Glasshouse
Tropical flowers are in bloom at any time of the year, including bougainvillea, plumeria, and royal poinciana.

Main gate
The design of the main gate is derived from images of Miyazaki Prefecture and the Singapore Botanic Gardens, Miyazaki's sister garden.

- ※1 Touta Kaneko
The beginning of Touta Kaneko's haiku career dates back to 1937 when he was invited to a haiku gathering hosted by an eminent haiku poet, Santa Dezawa. The featured poem was composed during the Kyushu Regional Contemporary Haiku Contest held in Miyazaki City in October 2003 in the theme of Aoshima.
- ※2 Takashi Nagatsuka
Takashi Nagatsuka is a poet who apprenticed under famed haiku poet Masoka Shiki at the age of 21, and pioneered peasant literature. The engraved monument features a tanka poem that he composed during his 1914 trip to Aoshima.

The Miyakoh Botanic Garden Aoshima has conducted tests and research on acclimatizing subtropical plant seeds and seedlings that were donated from Brazil and Argentina, contributing to shaping the image of Tropical Miyazaki. The Garden also signed a Sister Garden Agreement with the prestigious Singapore Botanic Garden in October, 1965 and has strived to deepen mutual understanding. Please make yourself at home and bask in the Garden's tropical atmosphere.

Welcome to Miyakoh Botanic Garden Aoshima!

Bougainvillea

Bougainvillea is a popular tropical flower distinguished by its vivid red and pink colors. 16 varieties of the flower are lined up in the Garden, eight of which are cuttings donated from the Singapore Botanic Garden and cultivated in Miyazaki. They are trained into different shapes, such as an umbrella or arch.

Tropical fruit glasshouse

Tropical fruit tree greenhouse was built in August 1977 and rebuilt in March 2018 due to deterioration.

In the greenhouse there are 26 types and 53 varieties of tropical fruits, which are easy to grow, including fruits familiar in Miyazaki such as mango, papaya, Carambola and guava so that you can view fruits all year round. You will enjoy tropical fruits from different points of view: funny and extraordinarily looking trees such as jaboticaba which bears fruits directly on its trunk and longan whose fruit looks like a dragon's eye; handy trees for our life such as sapodilla which is an ingredient of chewing gum and cinnamon, the spice. We have 4 to 15 varieties of banana, pineapple and papaya trees whose fruits are familiar to us and displayed as a collection.
